Message from the Executive Director

As the 2018-2019 Academic Year draws to a close, it is worth remembering what the motto is of the Delia Group of Schools: “Advancement in Adversity, Harmony in Diversity.” This motto encapsulates the beating heart of all the Delia schools, especially us here in the Delia primary schools and kindergartens, and it is this motto that we strive to affirm every day as proud Delians.

The first half of the Delia Group’s motto reminds us of our efforts to confront the challenges that come our way. Of course, life does not promise itself as being easy, but it is through the overcoming of the obstacles and the breaking of the barriers that lie ahead that we can really show that we have learned something about who we are and what we can do.

Our students are indeed the prime beneficiaries of the learning opportunities that we provide for them. Through the combination of academic and non-academic pursuits, our students are able to challenge themselves and become better learners now and, hopefully, life-long independent learners in the future. Naturally, as adults, we can sympathize when we see children struggle with learning Mathematics or writing Chinese characters, but we are also comforted by the knowledge that this is good for them in the long run. Their experiences with trying to address the difficulties that they are facing, along with the moral and emotional support that we as parents and teachers provide, will only serve to strengthen their determination and perseverance in the face of even greater difficulties in the future.

The second half of the Delia Group’s motto reminds us of our collective strengths as a diverse community. Our diversity can be seen not only in the visible trappings of our own rich heritages and cultures, but also in the intangible ways we think and see the world around us. Yes, we are multicultural, but we are also multidimensional in our own thoughts, ideas, and perspectives.

That our Delia primary schools and kindergartens can be considered safe spaces for this harmonious coexistence among people who look and think differently is a testament to our collective will to ensure that our students understand their sense of belonging in a multifaceted community. And our schools equip our students with the knowledge and skills they need to navigate such diversity, whether it is by learning different languages or by acquiring the social capital necessary in interpersonal relationships and group interactions. The twenty-first century certainly calls for greater connectivity and collaboration, and these are what we strive to inculcate in our students as they leave their mark on the world as global citizens.

Here at the Delia primary schools and kindergartens, we bear witness to the realization of the motto of the Delia Group of Schools. This is why, on behalf of the School Management, I would like to express my deepest gratitude to all of our students’ parents for entrusting us with the education of their children and to all of our teachers and staff who believe that both adversity and diversity will only serve to empower our students and enrich their lives now and in the years to come.
